NAWS pipeline expansion discussed

MINOT (AP) — An advisory committee for the Northwest Area Water Supply project is looking at plans to expand service north while work on the project continues.

The committee decided Wednesday to offer a final invitation to area cities within the project's reaches before drafting a design for transmitting water beyond Minot. So far, 15 cities have shown interest though two — Parshall and Willow City — are a looking at alternatives.

The other cities involved in the project are Minot, Berthold, Bottineau, Bowbells, Columbus, Grenora, Kenmare, Mohall, Noonan, Sherwood, Souris, Westhope and Wildrose.
